The attached detailed investment report lists each investment of the County Treasury Pool, as well as individual reports for specific investment funds that each school district or special district has in the County Treasury. The reports include the respective purchase and maturity dates, par value, amortized cost, market value, and yield to maturity for each investment.

Page 2

The yield of the Pool on September 30, 2023, was 3.00%. As a comparison, on September 30, 2023, the yield of a 6-month Treasury Bill was 5.54%. A two-year Treasury Note was 5.04%. The State of California Local Agency Investment Fund (LAIF) yield was 3.53%.

Attached with the current investment-economic outlook is a schedule that lists the average weighted maturities and yield for the Commingled Investment Pool. Charts outlining investment concentrations and distribution of bond maturities are provided for the Pool. Also included is a chart showing the fiscal year-to date history of the Pool along with interest rates offered by selected comparable instruments.

Securities are purchased with the expectation that they will generally be held to maturity, hence unrealized gains or losses are not reflected in the yield calculations.

The market values of Pool securities were taken from pricing services provided by Bank of New York Mellon, Bloomberg Analytics, dealer quotes, and an independent pricing service.

A combination of maturing securities, new revenues, and tax receipts will adequately cover the anticipated cash flow needs for the next six months. Cash flows are continually monitored and are considered paramount in the selection of securities purchased for the Pool.

*Yield to maturity (YTM) is the rate of return paid on a bond, note, or other fixed income security if the investor buys and holds it to its maturity date and if the coupon interest paid over the life of the bond is reinvested at the same rate as the coupon rate. The calculation for YTM is based on the coupon rate, length of time to maturity, and market price at time of purchase.

Yield is a snapshot measure of the yield of the portfolio on the day it was measured based on the current portfolio holdings on that day. This is not a measure of total return, and is not intended to be, since it does not factor in unrealized capital gains and losses and reinvestment rates are dependent upon interest rate changes

**Cost Value is the amortized book value of the securities as of the date of this report.

Economic Update and Portfolio Strategy

September 30, 2023

So far, the U.S. economy and its labor market have not been materially impacted by the Federal Reserve Bank's aggressive hiking of interest rates that began 19 months ago to curb inflation by slowing the economy. The unemployment rate remains exceptionally low at just 3.8 percent. Indicators, so far suggest that economic growth accelerated in the quarter ending September 30th despite tightening monetary policy. Inflation has moderated considerably but is still well above the Federal Reserve Bank (Fed) policy makers' 2 percent target. The consumer price index (CPI) for September rose by 3.7 percent from a year earlier. Policy makers have signaled that they intend to hold interest rates steady for a while but given existing concerns they may be far from completing their campaign. Consumer resilience and recent news of wages being paid and or demanded by striking workers, anchoring the risk of sticky inflation are only a few of the issues being considered by policy makers.

The economy continues to benefit from excess savings provided by the Covid relief stimulus programs enacted under Trump and in the early days of the Biden administration. Targeted fiscal initiatives passed after The Rescue Plan, March 2021 have provided additional support to the economy. U.S. government deficits are currently running at 5 percent and are projected to grow and spur demand. The energy transition, subsidies for strategic manufacturing, semiconductors, and war-footing defense spending, will continue to boost government spending.

Healthy household and corporate (non-bank) balance sheets have softened the impact of Fed rate hikes on the economy. Historically low debt servicing costs, and liabilities with longer-term maturities, have additionally provided a buffer from rising short-term rates. Solid balance sheets in the banking system and excess liquidity both explain good access to credit by households and business.

At this juncture, from near zero, the Fed has increased its policy rate five- and one-half percentage points. Economists expect that Fed policy makers will forgo a rate hike at their November 1st policy meeting. Policy makers left the rate unchanged at their previous meeting in September. The current pause may well be temporary. Even though inflation is slowly edging lower, Fed policy makers are still concerned with a plethora of risks that may push inflation higher than they expect. Risks include shocks to food prices, a stronger housing market and further slowing in the decline of goods prices. Higher rates discourage current owners from listing their homes for sale causing contractions in inventory and ultimately, higher home prices.

Economic Update and Portfolio Strategy

September 30, 2023

Producer prices rose more than forecast in September, advanced 0.5 percent from a month earlier, marking the third-straight increase. Core inflation excluding shelter and energy services, a measure closely watched by policy makers also accelerated. An anticipated ground war between Israel and Hamas also threatens to keep energy prices elevated, which could feed into more inflation pressures.

The labor market remains the central concern for Fed policy makers. Inflation data underscore how a strong labor market is supporting consumer demand and keeping pricing pressure elevated. US retail sales in September exceeded all forecasts while industrial production strengthened, solid evidence of a resilient consumer whose spending is also helping stabilize manufacturing. Hiring surged in September. Across all categories, employers added 336,000 jobs, double the number estimated by economists, and up sharply from the prior month's 227,000 gain. While job losses continue to depress IT, the overall unemployment rate has held at historically low levels. Average hourly earnings rose 3.4 percent in September on a three-month annualized basis.

Given that the effects of tighter monetary policy materialize on a lagged basis, it is not unreasonable for Fed policy makers to pause from rate hiking and assess progress to date. Furthermore, given the recent swift rise in long-term rates, this could slow the economy, effectively substituting for another Fed hike if higher borrowing costs are sustained. Yields on the 10-year Treasury note neared 5 percent in mid-October, closing at 4.99 percent. That is the highest it's been since 2007, and notably, it is also in line with the 10-year average yields between 1997 and 2007.

When longer-term interest rates go up, that influences a range of borrowing costs from mortgage and auto loans to business debt. Recently, mortgage lenders have quoted rates near 8 percent on the 30-year fixed rate loan, a level last seen in 2000. The policy rate controlled by the Fed influences but does not determine interest rates on long dated debt. The current rate cycle has been one of the sharpest rises for long-dated borrowing costs in decades, and yields have broken out of the bull-market trend that had been ongoing since the 1980s.
